Helping young first-time voters take centre stage at the 2024 European Elections

Dear friend,

If you are reading these lines, it probably means that we share at least two things: a concern about the decisive upcoming European Elections in 2024 and a sense of the risks and opportunities that digital technologies imply for democracy.

The report Democracy in a Digital Society by Reimagine Europa evidences the need for innovative, bold actions for democratic involvement in the digital sphere. Manuel Castells highlighted that “Europe is in danger because of a lack of ideas”. Well, we have one. And we believe its both powerful and feasible.

For the past months we have been working to develop a comprehensive app engaging European citizens, especially the youngest, in European politics. We are convinced that we can reach millions of citizens through a Voting Advice Application (VAA) at the EU level.

There is ample evidence that younger European citizens (16-28) have a differentiated electoral behavior. This phenomenon has been thoroughly studied –both its causes and consequences– but the current strategies to increase youth turnout are not always aligned with the empirical diagnosis.

Such an app would serve a triple purpose: being a vote mobilization device (1), informing its users about the European political debates while combatting both disinformation and polarization (2) and generating valuable knowledge for social research purposes (3).

Please keep reading this presentation to discover more about our project, its origins and how will we make it happen. We are already on the right track, and, with your financial support and expertise, we can have a positive long-term impact on the European conversation about digitalization and democracy.

Enthusiastically,

The team behind Palumba EU

1. WHY THE YOUTH IS CRUCIAL FOR EE24

Preference for European Parliament priorities by age.

Investing in youth turnout today means caring about democracy tomorrow. Why?

Voting is a social habit that can and should be learnt. If a youngster votes in their first elections, they're very likely to keep doing it all their life.

Younger generations are more pro-European. Their political preferences are differentiated and aligned with strategic priorities for the EU.

Our mission is making young Europeans vote more than ever at the 2024 Elections

1. WHY THE YOUTH IS CRUCIAL FOR EE24

How is our generation different?

A.

Decision to vote made days before the election

Young Europeans have a unique electoral behaviour, they hesitate above average between parties and 48% of them do European issue-based voting (above average).

Post-electoral Eurobarometer Survey (2019)

B.

Gen Z spends 8+ hours a day of screen time

In the runup of EE24, only our project will be ready in time to leverage scalability and the viral power of digital communication.

HOW OUR DIGITAL TOOL WILL MAKE A DIFFERENCE

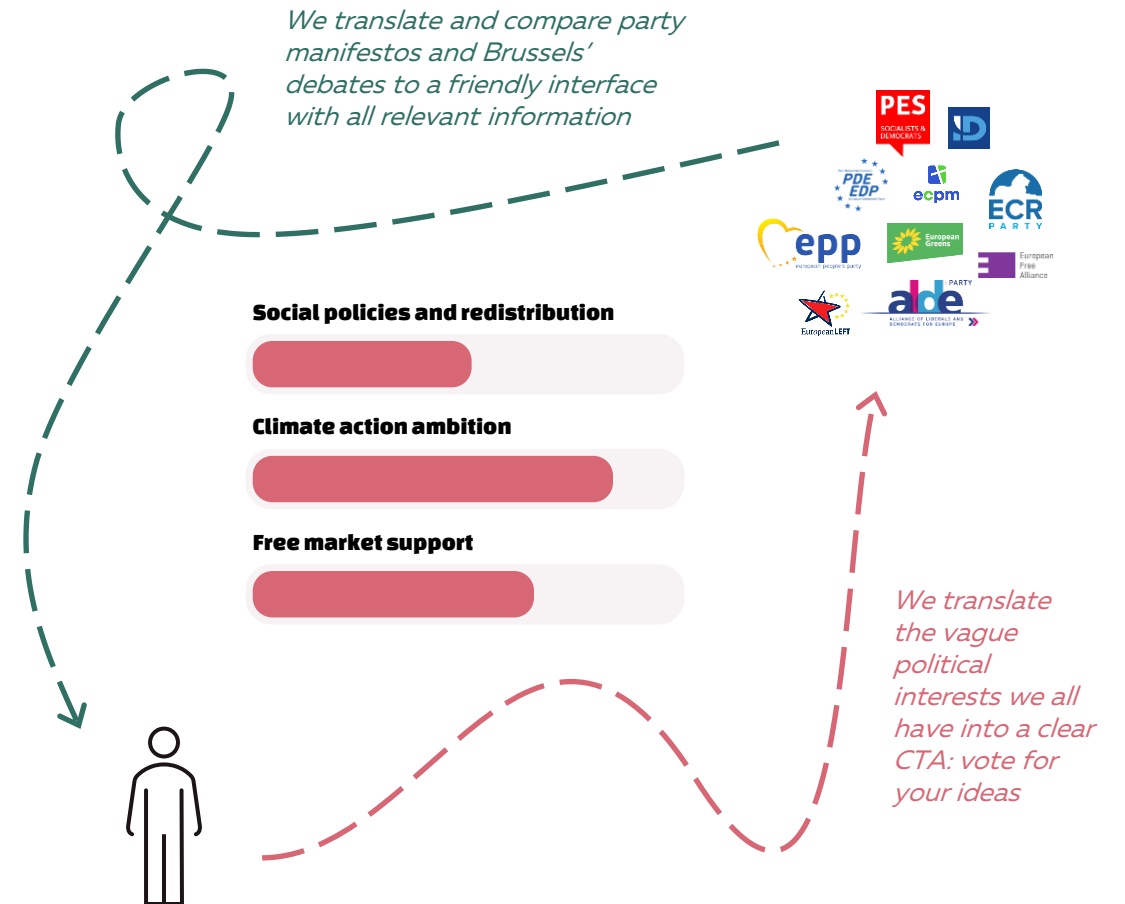

IMPACT AT SCALE

50+ million potential users

Voting Advice Applications (VAA) have a proven track record of increasing election turnout. Up to 50% of voters use them to make informed voting decisions.

Academic research highlights “a strong mobilizing effect among groups that typically vote in relatively small numbers, such as young voters and those less knowledgeable about politics”.

Garzia & Marschall (2019); Gemenis & Rosema (2014)

2. THE APP COMPLEMENTS AND MULTIPLIES THE IMPACT OF ALREADY-EXISTING INITIATIVES

December 2023

Step 1 Gathering the political priorities of young Europeans

We are getting input from several reports, youth organizations and content validation experiments.

This allows us to focus on the policies that are most relevant to younger generations.

We will run a content validation experiment with 400 students

Festivals, round tables, sessions in schools, etc.

Step 2 Activation events and school workshops

There will be hundreds of events across the European Union connected with the elections which are not always linked with voting itself. Our app makes that connection.

Step 3 Social media and communication

Social media content has a clear Call To Action (CTA): use the app to think about your vote!
